

TELEOLOGY OF THE SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

Alexander Kholmanskiy

It is known for over 2000 years that Man shall not live by bread alone (Matthew 4.4). However, all topics of any Global Conference on Sustainable Environment, Energy and Agriculture are devoted still to «bread» only, and not a single item is dedicated to the very purpose and cost of development. Ignoring these issues turns into a global environmental crisis and generates the problem of survival of mankind. Energy and food stockpiles of the civilization shall be developed simultaneously with the scientific cognition of the human ability to think heuristically. That means to hear word from the mouth of God.

Man's ability to create new and useful is the psychophysical basis of his spirituality. It is the spiritual formation of person corresponding to the logic of the anthropic principle that makes the Global aim of the evolution of the World. The paper shows that this aim can be achieved through an epistemological synergy of scientific rethinking the Bible myths combined with spiritualization axiomatic of fundamental physics []. The key point of this synergy is the knowledge of the brain physics and determining the rules of life that contribute to each person's development and complete implementation of his natural talents in the process of fruitful activities. In order to reach the purpose of Sustainable Environment it is necessary to combine the global monitoring of material resources and demography with the development of technologies designed to enhance human spirituality. To coordinate this work in scientific institutions as well as in the system of primary, secondary and higher education, an International Scientific Center of the Bible has to be founded in London.
